

Please do not lift the ban on cellular phone use aboard aircrafts, or at the very list permit it only in designated seating areas. Lifting the ban would enable some passengers to disrupt all others, preventing them from sleeping, relaxing or watching in-flight entertainment. And, as all passengers are confined to a very small space in-flight there would be no way for those that prefer sleep, to escape the personal and professional conversations going on around them. As with the smoking ban on flights, inconveniencing a few passengers will benefit the majority. The ban would also ensure that any problems caused by rude cell-phone behavior would be minimized.
